SUMMARY

A probable military barracks area is located at Kamenka-Bugskaya (Figure 1). The installation is partially fenced and has accommodations for approximately 2,400 troops. The installation is adjacent to the Bolshoye Kolodnoye-Rayezd rail line, which passes by the west side of the barracks area. Road service for the installation extends generally north to Uzlovoye, west to Batyatyche, and south to Tadani.

Within the installation (Figures 2 and 3), there are six multistory probable barracks, two multistory probable administration buildings, three probable vehicle maintenance buildings, eight probable support buildings, 8 probable storage buildings, and one oval athletic field.

Approximately one kilometer west of the installation is a possible explosives storage area under construction. Contained within the fenced possible explosives storage area are four storage buildings, of which three are 60 by 50 feet and one is 90 by 30 feet. The installation is served by a secondary road which also extends to the probable barracks area.

DESCRIPTION OF INSTALLATION

Rail Service

Rail service for the installation extends generally north to south and east of the barracks area.

Road Service

Several hard surface roads exist in and around the probable barracks area.

Administrative and Troop Housing Area

Area D (Figure 3) contains six multistory probable barracks large enough to accommodate approximately 2,400 troops, two multistory probable administration buildings, three 275- by 45-foot probable vehicle maintenance buildings, eight probable support buildings, eight probable storage buildings, and an oval athletic track.
